“ There are too many memories to go through. Ive known him for over half of our lives. I remember playing godzilla in our back yard to him running off with my new sheets to build a fort. I remember unbelievable parties and special secret late nights when we would just stay up and laugh about sh*t. I kept his blue Superman shirt he tore from his cheat and wore as a cape. I remember you fighting my ex for hurting me and his contagious laugh. There are way too many years of memories.. Remember that one time we skipped school and hung out at tessa's house? Or the time you and james tore all my naked pictures out of my animes for your guy club. The times youd randomly show up at 2 am with beer and such and force us to wake up and party. Lols man there are just soo many memories its insane to even beleive in this.. I cant wrap my head around the fact you wont be back. I still expect you to come visit at crazy hours and bring strangers ill never see again lols I just wany to hug you.. Remember when i told caitlyn she was luckylike me and would have twin girls.. Then she did! You were so happy we were the twin rents lols like how insane is that for us both to have them! I miss movie nights and random game show nights i miss drinking and rec use with you! Your the most exciting person i ever met and not one day wasnt eventful with you in my life. Ill love you forever and beyond and i will hold every memory dear to my heart. watson I cant imagine this life without you and im so sorry your future was taken away! I love you little brother until we meet again <3 fly high superman
